

MUSICIANS TO AID CAMPAIGN GOODFELLOWS

Fund Growing Slowly as Appeals Pile Up For Help

At a meeting of Dixon local, No. 525, American Federation of Musicians, held Monday evening, it was voted unanimously to take some part in the Goodfellow campaign to provide a Merry Christmas for the needy children of Dixon. A committee was named to perfect plans for a charity dance to be held at the Downing armory hall Tuesday evening, December 18. About 15 musicians volunteered part time of their services on this occasion, furnishing music for the dancing party.

Two well known local orchestras will work in conjunction throughout the evening from 9 until 12 o'clock. The regular orchestra personnel will be augmented by additional musicians, who will form a 12 to 15 piece orchestra throughout the entire evening. Members of the Dixon theater orchestra will also assist in the worthy cause.

All of the proceeds from the dancing party will be donated to the Goodfellow fund.

Company A, 129th Infantry, has donated the use of its hall for the event. The musicians are donating their services and the advertising is donated, so that all proceeds from the dance will be available for the poor youngsters of the city.

Fund Grows Slowly

The Goodfellow fund is growing rather slowly. Only $26 came in yesterday and the total is far below the mark needed to provide any kind of a happy Christmas for the scores and scores of poor boys and girls on our list.

We urge needy families to send their names and addresses in at once. Mail the names, ages and addresses of the children to the Goodfellow Club, care of the Evening Telegraph office, or leave them here at the office.

Offer Coal To Poor.

The Dixon Fuel and Supply Company have informed the Goodfellow Club that they will deliver a half ton of coal each to four poor families. This will certainly be an acceptable Christmas gift.

Get Busy, Goodfellows.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow, if you want to do your share in the work this year now is the time to signify it. We need your help. Without it, some little boy or girl will be missed entirely when Santa Claus makes his rounds.

Abandon Football

Lincoln, Ill., Dec. 12—(AP)—Decision of the board of managers of Lincoln College, to abandon football as a major sport at that institution next fall, has met with disapproval of the student body.

A petition requesting a mass meeting with members of the faculty last night was posted by students, but it was postponed when it was found that the board of managers must be consulted also.

Abandonment of football, was proposed in an effort to cut down operating expenses of the college, and W. T. Weleben, athletic director, was requested by the board not to schedule any games.

Football, the board announced, had been a losing proposition at Lincoln College for a number of years.

AMBOY HIGH SCHOOL IS CLOSED TO PREVENT FURTHER SPREAD OF FLU: EPIDEMIC CONTINUES ELSEWHERE

(Telegraph Special Service)

Amboy, Ill., Dec. 12—Because of the prevalence of influenza in this community and in an effort to prevent its further spread, the Amboy township high school was closed yesterday for an indefinite period.

Washington, Dec. 12—(AP)—Schools and colleges in widely separated sections of the country continue to close because of the outbreak of influenza, although Surgeon General Cummings thinks this closing is of little value in cities, while of benefit in rural districts.

The disease, first noticed in California and on the Pacific coast, has spread until it is reported from many localities, Kansas leading all the states with 13,596 reported cases.

Montana has 4,580 known cases and Colorado 1,936.

Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Indiana, closed yesterday because of the malady, as did Clemson College, Greenville, South Carolina, and St. Mary's College, St. Mary's, Kansas. The University of Kansas is suspending today, while grade and high schools over the south and west are discontinuing.

Previous advice of health authorities to "go to bed and stay there" if influenza develops was reiterated by Surgeon General Cummings.

Thus far the disease is apparently in a mild form, the deaths attributed to it having been comparatively few.

DAYLIGHT HOLD UP NETTED BOLD THIEVES $104,000

Yonkers, N. Y., Scene of a Daring Pay Roll Robbery Today

Yonkers, N. Y., Dec. 12—(AP)—In a daylight holdup in the heart of this city's business section seven or eight robbers opened fire this morning on the collection car of the First National Bank and escaped with a $100,000 payroll after wounding one of the bank guards.

The collection wagon, a partly armored automobile, was transporting the payroll from the postoffice to the bank for later delivery. Two bank guards and a city policeman were riding in the car.

At an intersection in the center of the city, a group of men in another car opened fire on the bank car, shooting directly through the windshield. Adolph Kauser, one of the guards, was shot through the arm.

The other guards and policeman were subdued by the robbers who escaped with the payroll, switching on the way from their original automobile, which they deserted, to another car.

There were four bags of money in the car. Vice President Charles A. Valentine of the First National Bank told police that the exact amount was $104,500.

Delay Mayor's Appeal

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 12—(AP)—Giving Mayor William Hale Thompson until April 1 to file his brief and abstract, answering the Chicago Tribune's suit against him, the Supreme Court today deferred a decision in the case until the June term or after.

The suit against Thompson and associates was based on the charge that real estate experts, engaged in the "city beautiful" plan, were paid about 40 times the worth of their services and that they turned back portions of the excess to help finance the Mayor's political campaign fund.

A bond of $2,500,000 was filed in the lower court by the Mayor and others, when the case was appealed here.

COOLIDGE OPENS AVIATION MEET; RECALLS PAST

Praises Wright Brothers as "Fathers" of Modern Air Craft

Washington, Dec. 12—(AP)—The progress of man's efforts to conquer the air, going back to the fourth century before Christ was outlined by President Coolidge today in an address before the International Civil Aeronautics Conference.

Mr. Coolidge drew a picture of flying, especially of heavier-than-air flying in the present day which showed the great strides this new industry since the Wright brothers rose from the sand dunes at Kitty Hawk, N. C., twenty-five years ago in the first sustained flight in a machine driven airplane.

Reviewed Progress

He pointed out that in 1926 the value of the aeronautics industry in the United States was $5,000,000 and that it now is $150,000,000. Regular flying in this country, beginning with a short air mail line, he said, has increased to 15,500 miles and plans were under way to extend international lines to the Isthmus and to South America.

"All nations are looking forward to the day of extensive, regular and reasonably safe international and inter-oceanic transportation by airplane and airship," he said. "What the future holds out even the imagination may be inadequate to grasp. We may be sure, however, that the perfection and extension of air transport throughout the world will be of the utmost significance to civilization. While the primary aim of this industry is and will be commercial and economic and the prosperity of the world will be immeasurably advanced by it, indirectly, but no less surely, will the nations be drawn more closely together in bonds of amity and understanding."

Praised the Wrights

Mr. Coolidge devoted a large portion of his address to a review of the history of aeronautics in which he praised the achievement of the Wright brothers.

"Others, whose names will long be remembered, had done much to solve the problem," he said, "but it remained for the able, persistent and modest brothers from Dayton to demonstrate completely the possibility of a machine raising itself by its own power and carrying a man in a sustained flight."

Turning to the widespread use of the airplane today and its rapid development in recent years, Mr. Coolidge said that the "wonderful and spectacular flight to Paris" of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his subsequent country-wide tour, had done "much to make America air-minded." The nineteenth century was the railroad and steamboat age, he said, while the twentieth "will be known for the development of aeronautics and air transport."

"Air transport means much to the United States," he said, "divided as it is in the west by lofty mountain ranges and deserts. In the early days, it took six months to go from Missouri to the Pacific coast. An airplane has travelled across the continent in less than twenty-four hours. We are stretching out our arms through the air to Canada and to our friends and neighbors in the south."

Ruth Elder Divorced

Panama, Dec. 12—(AP)—An interlocutory decree of divorce has been granted Lyle Womack from Ruth Elder, who was rescued by a tanker when she attempted to fly across the Atlantic.

The divorce action was instituted in the Canal Zone district court by Womack on September 6th before sailing for the Antarctic with the expedition headed by Commander Richard E. Byrd. In a deposition placed before the court Womack's father said that unhappiness caused by Miss Elder was the main cause of his son's joining the South Polar Expedition.

Womack said that since her flight Ruth had treated him with scorn and indifference, assuming a superior attitude and showing neither love nor affection.

FRUSTRATE PLOT TO BOMB HOOVER TRAIN IN BRAZIL

Buenos Aires Officials Arrest Men Suspected of Bomb Plot

Buenos Aires, Dec. 12—(AP)—A plot to bomb Herbert Hoover's special train has been frustrated. With two men under arrest, police today were continuing their search for any anti-American agitators who might be involved.

Fifteen hundred guards will be employed on special duty to insure the safety of the United States President-elect when he arrives tomorrow and during his visit.

President Irigoyen, in a statement on the plot, said police in searching a house in Estombar Street found four hand grenades, two cylindrical bombs, one square bomb, dynamite, revolvers, automatic pistols, quantities of ammunition and one hundred and fifty ten-peso notes.

The police announced that a room in the raided house contained a detailed map of the railway system. Police believe the plotters intended to place the bomb on the tracks on the outskirts of the city just before the arrival of the Hoover special train.

Police in raiding the house arrested a youth who said he was Carlos Gutierrez, 18. The authorities described him as a student of chemistry and they believed that he manufactured the bombs.

Later a second man was arrested near the house. He gave the name of Jaime Oliver, but police said he was Jaime Castro, a chauffeur.

President Irigoyen said: "The president of the republic, being desirous of making agreeable the visit of the President-elect of the United States of America and of offering the greatest possible guarantee of safety to the personnel of the illustrious visitor, commanded the police to intensify their observations of dangerous elements."

The President added that this order had been carried out by the Division of Investigations which discovered the house which was raided.

Although only two men were officially announced to have been arrested it was generally known today that the police had been active for a week in picking up suspects. These suspects will be confined until after the departure of Mr. Hoover to prevent any plots against Mr. Hoover and any public demonstrations against the United States.

CROSSED ANDES.

Los Andes, Chile, Dec. 12—(AP)—President-elect Hoover today was crossing the Andes mountains on a special train en route from Santiago to Buenos Aires. He traveled over the highest trans-continental railroad route in either of the Americas, carrying his mission of friendship and understanding across one of the mightiest barriers known to man.

From Los Andes to its terminal at Mendoza the total length of trans-Andean railway is approximately 154 miles. Its highest point is 10,512 feet above sea level and it provided Mr. Hoover with the opportunity of studying one of the greatest engineering feats in the world.

Mr. Hoover in crossing the Andes completed his travel to the only important region in the world that he had never visited before.

The train was carried over the mountain by a rack system. On the Chilean side the line has been electrified.

Through Long Tunnel.

Coming to the summit of the mountain the road ran through a tunnel nearly two miles long and the train in passing through this tunnel crossed the border between Argentina and Chile.

Mr. Hoover bade farewell to Chile after exchanging hearty expressions of friendship between the United States and Chile with his host, President Bianchi. At a luncheon which was the climax of the Chilean welcome, President Ibanez said that the national spirit of the United States had given to the world incalculable benefits and an even greater hope for future spiritual and material advancement between the peoples of both continents.

Mr. Hoover in replying said that in both countries there was a common history of building in a new world a new form of government founded upon a new conception of human rights. He asserted, "Our economic interests are reciprocal and our progress in prosperity and comfort can only be mutual."

In addressing newspapermen who are accompanying Mr. Hoover the Chilean President said, "You must not forget that this country desires solid friendship with the United States."

WANT BUILDING CODE

Members of the Dixon Building Trades council appeared before the city council at the regular weekly meeting last evening and urged the passage of a city building code ordinance. Such a measure has been discussed at the council sessions numerous times and copies of ordinances now in effect in several Illinois cities have been obtained and are being investigated with a view of drafting a similar ordinance in Dixon.

The contractors of the city are heartily in accord with the adoption of such an ordinance in Dixon and are urging its early passage.

Influenza Fatal to Amboy Show Baboon

The influenza epidemic which is reported to be sweeping the country is apparently no respecter of persons or animals. A fatality from the dread affliction was reported today from Amboy, where an 80 pound male lion-sling baboon succumbed to the ravages of the epidemic. Accompanying the news of the passing of the native of the wilds of Africa, were numerous tales of a thrilling hunt along the Green river bottoms south of Amboy, which for a time had the appearance of a big game hunting ground.

The year-old baboon was the property of a medicine show which appeared in Amboy this week. The animal was exhibited and had been taught some tricks which it performed before the cure-all was offered to the disease-suffering public. The baboon is reported to have contracted influenza and after a few days suffering, succumbed. The owners of the show brought the carcass to Dixon and this morning it was purchased by Sinow & Wienman and is attracting a great deal of attention in the display window at the Dixon Auto Parts office on Hennepin avenue. The purchasers plan having the hide stuffed.

CRAZED NEGRO SHOT AND WOUNDED NINE POLICEMEN BEFORE HE WAS KILLED IN CHICAGO THIS MORN

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A sixteen-year-old Negro youth today shot and wounded nine policemen, among them Deputy Commissioner Martin E. Mullen, before more than 200 policemen and firemen, using shotguns, pistols, tear bombs, streams of water and machine guns, succeeded in breaking into a building where he had barricaded himself and killing him.

The crazed youth, Ernest Whitehurst, succeeded in staging one of the most protracted barricades in the history of the police department with policemen firing on the building in which he made his stand from adjacent buildings, telephone poles and even from ladders. When finally cowed Whitehurst had fifteen bullet wounds in his body but lived for two hours despite his injuries.

Whitehurst threw a brick through a store window and the police pursued him into his home in North Townsend Street, northwest of the loop. The Negro snatched up a shotgun inside his home and turned it on his pursuers, wounding Police Officer Edward Fontaine. The police retired and summoned reinforcements. Then for five hours the police, using steel shields, machine guns, riot guns, tear bombs and streams of water tried unsuccessfully to dislodge the boy, who fired with pistols and the shotgun alternately from a bathroom and bedroom window. The police finally broke into the building at dawn and cornered him in the bathroom where a volley of shots was poured into his body as he snapped one of his weapons in a policeman's face.

The wounded policemen were suffering mostly from minor buckshot wounds, although the condition of one or two was considered serious. Deputy Commissioner Mullen, directing the attack, received a charge of buckshot in his ear and neck.

Three sisters, one a year-old baby, and two brothers of the Negro were in the house with him throughout the siege.

The window smashing which ended in the spectacular police siege was the result of a grudge borne by the Negro and two companions against a restaurant. Two weeks ago they threw a brick through the restaurant window and repeated last night.

Entrance of the police into the flat was dramatic. For four hours they had tried to enter by subterfuge but at last made a bold assault on the front door. They were unable to break it down, however, but suddenly it was opened for them by the youth's crippled sister.

Twelve feet ahead the police saw the boy sitting in the bathroom, a shotgun across his knees. He was peering out the window but suddenly turned and saw the police. He whipped up his shotgun and fired. He did not explode, simultaneously every policeman in the squad fired at him.

Sure that he was dead, the police started to take his body to the morgue only to find that he was still breathing and he lived for two hours despite the fact that one of the fifteen police bullets struck him squarely in the middle of the forehead and emerged at the base of the skull. The boy's 23-year-old sister said that the youth thought he was being besieged by burglars.

Wales Sees Father.

The Prince of Wales, who reached London late last night after his 6,000-mile race from Africa, visited Buckingham Palace shortly after noon today and spent an hour and a half there. This was after the puncture operation. About 1:30 p. m. he returned to his home at York House. During the afternoon Queen Mary attended the unveiling of the Mercantile Marine war memorial at Tower Hill. She was accompanied by Princess Mary.

Buckingham Palace officials were reluctant to comment on the bulletin, but the fact that slight improvement had been maintained, was taken as a good sign.

On the other hand there was a bit of foreboding because the physicians found further drainage of the lung region would have to be undertaken in the near future.

THE MORNING REPORT

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—King George was fighting his grave battle today with wonderful strength.

There was slightly more hopeful air among Buckingham officials this morning after the medical bulletin had been issued and the bulletin itself was regarded as favorable. The anxiety which has prevailed during the last two days still continued, but it had been lessened.

The fever from which the King is suffering was not quite so active, this being reflected in a lowered temperature which was considered a good sign.

A remarkable rally which the King made last night just before he saw the Prince of Wales, who made a stirring dash from equatorial Africa to his father's bedside, seemed to have been maintained. This gave an indication of the strength with which the King was fighting his battle.

Morning Bulletin

At 10:30 a. m., the King's physicians issued this bulletin:

"The King had some hours of sleep. The slight improvement noted late last night is maintained, the temperature being somewhat lower and the general condition a little better."

Although his condition continued grave, the King immediately recognized the Prince of Wales, who was permitted to visit his father late at night after completing a dash of about 6,500 miles from the interior of equatorial Africa which he left two weeks ago this morning.

Hope was also encouraged by the fact that the Queen had not cancelled an engagement to act for the King late this afternoon in unveiling a war memorial.

OPERATED ON KING GEORGE; DRAINED LUNG

British Monarch Continues to Show Improved Condition

BULLETIN

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—Sir Hugh Riggby, honorary surgeon to King George, visited the palace this evening.

It was the first time that Sir Hugh, who has been surgeon-in-ordinary to the Prince of Wales since 1923, has been mentioned as visiting the palace.

Despite anxiety over the illness of her royal husband, Queen Mary renewed evidence today of her devotion to duty. She motored from Buckingham Palace into the city of London and for the first time unveiled a war memorial — one to members of mercantile and fishing fleets who were lost at sea in the world war.

Incidentally the occasion was the first on which the queen's voice has been heard on the radio. The entire ceremonial was broadcast, giving opportunity for thousands of British subjects to hear the Queen's voice in this time of anxiety and stress.

It was stated officially today that Prince George, who has been serving aboard the H. M. S. Durban, left Bermuda this morning for New York. He will leave New York on the tire ceremonial was broadcast, giving land Friday.

London, Dec. 12—(AP)—King George underwent an operation today for the removal by puncture of purulent fluid around the base of his right lung.

Some of the purulent fluid was removed and further drainage will be necessary.

Announcement of the operation was made in a bulletin timed 3:20 p. m. and signed by five of the six physicians who have been attending His Majesty.

This bulletin read as follows:

"The slight improvement in the King's condition noted this morning is maintained. Some purulent fluid around the base of the right lung has been removed by puncture this morning and further drainage will be necessary."

Wall Street

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—The recovery in stock prices which has been under way since Monday, was resumed at the opening of the New York Stock Exchange, Kansas City Southern, Canadian Pacific, Anaconda Copper, Gold Dust and Radio showed initial gains of a point or two.

Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list in the early trading. Bullish enthusiasm probably was created by the recent easing of call money rates and recurrent gossip of higher dividends. Wall Street also is looking forward to more stock splits next year, the tobacco stocks being the latest mentioned in this respect.

Public Utility issues again attracted a large following. American Express ran up 5 points, Radio extended its gain to 5 and Brooklyn Union Gas and several others advanced a point or two.

Rails also moved up in expectation that the recent increase in car loadings would result in substantially higher earnings over the next few months. Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, Rock Island and Missouri-Kansas-Texas all sold a point or so higher.

There were a few soft spots in the early trading. Bethlehem and Ludlum Steels ran into some profit taking and Goodyear Rubber, General Electric and Commercial Solvents also fell back a point or two.

Foreign Exchanges opened firm with Sterling Cables unchanged at $4.85-3/16. The market reserved its trend before midday, after a 6 point drop in Packard to 148 1/2. Industrial Rayon fell 5 points to 123, the lowest price since it was listed, and A. M. Byers led nearly 5. Bethlehem Steel yielded 3 points, Chrysler a like amount, and General Motors 2. Before the reaction gains had run to 14 points in American Express, 10 in Du Pont, 8 in Radio, and 5 in Commercial Solvents. Disappointment was felt at a call money renewal rate of 8 per cent, after funds had been available at 6 1/2 in the outside market late yesterday.

Gas Fumes Fatal
Freepoint—Ralph Russo, also known as "Tony," who was found unconscious on the floor of his bedroom in his home in East Spring street Sunday evening, died at St. Francis hospital Monday night at a result of inhaling gas fumes.

Russo was found unconscious, with gas pouring from a lighting fixture, by a neighbor who called to see how he was getting along, Russo having complained of illness several days. It is believed he accidentally turned on the gas and was overcome before he realized what had happened.

Mr. Russo was 66 years old and had lived here many years, coming from Rockford, where he has a son, Frank. The latter was notified Monday of his father's critical condition and was with him when he died.

LASTING RELIEF OF RHEUMATISM FROM GLY-CAS

I've Been All Right for Year Now," Says Man Formerly Bedridden in Misery.

"About 2 years ago I had an attack of rheumatism with which I was crippled up in bed for a time, but I have honestly been all right for a year now, thanks to this Gly-Cas medicine," Mr. J. C. Chambers, 13 Indiana Ave., Danville, Ill., says in a statement praising this remarkable herbal remedy.

MR. CHAMBERS.

"I had also suffered for years from kidney troubles, having to get up 7 or 8 times a night," he continues. "I was constipated, couldn't sleep, and never seemed to have much of an appetite. After I had taken the first box of Gly-Cas I could tell this medicine was doing wonders for me. I continued to improve and now, I am not in bed 5 minutes at night until I'm sound asleep, my appetite has returned so that I enjoy my meals and I've been entirely relieved of the terrible kidney disorder—never have to get up in the night anymore. As other people have said, Gly-Cas seemed to act like magic in the relief it has given me."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives, Polo, C. R. Clothier, Ashton, G. R. Charney, Compton, W. H. Hills, Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

Miss Johnston Was Hostess at Party

Miss Minnie Johnson of Amboy was hostess last evening at a charming Christmas party to the members of the On Egan Club of this city at the home of her friends, Mrs. John Johnston on Peoria avenue. The evening was spent in fancy work and social chat and later, all enjoyed the tempting luncheon served. The table was gay in Christmas decorations of red and green. The centerpiece was a pretty Christmas tree decorated in shining ornaments and lights, and placed at the foot of the tree were the Christmas gifts, all present exchanging gifts. The entire evening was one of much enjoyment to everyone in attendance.

Mayor Speaker at Men's Class Meet

The regular monthly social and business meeting of the Loyal Men's class of the Christian church was held at the home of O. D. Flannigan, 802 First street Tuesday evening. The program committee had requested Mayor Frank D. Palmer to be present and address the club on the subject of "Dixon and Its Future." In the course of his remarks, Mayor Palmer said:

"Every city of the size of Dixon has its future, no one can tell what that will be. Dixon, unlike most cities, has every advantage for a thriving, growing city. Good hard roads in all directions, every road in Dixon in excellent condition and all resurfaced with gravel, should alone be an inviting thing toward the making of Dixon's future. 'The new high school building—the new bridge for which the contract will be let very soon—all these attract the attention of traveling men of whom 150 are making Dixon their home and others desire to move here as soon as these improvements are completed for the education of their families. Every citizen of Dixon can help make Dixon's future. 'We need the outlying districts. We must get out of the rut. We don't want Dixon just to be a four corner town. Ownership of the waterworks should also be an important part in the making of Dixon's future. More citizens should be in attendance at the regular sessions of the city council. These meetings are open to all and none of the business of the city is transacted behind closed doors."

He that whispers down a well, About the goods he has to sell, Will not reap the shining dollars Like one that climbs a tree and holds 'em."

Mrs. J. E. Reagan was also present and gave some of her fine and original readings. Master Norman Flannigan played the part of Santa Claus in the giving of gift packages, each of which was accompanied by a bible verse. Light refreshments were served at the conclusion of the delightful and interesting program.

The Prince would not have rushed to Buckingham Palace if the end of the King had not been near, it was insisted at the palace that such a meeting would not have been allowed had physicians attending the King regarded the excitement which would attend it as likely to have an effect immediately dangerous.

Visit Was Short
When the prince first arrived at the palace it was announced that he was not allowed to see his father. Later it was stated, however, that he did see the king but the visit was not prolonged for fear of tiring the patient. These contradictory statements were explained unofficially today by the announcement that the King was sleeping when his son and his arrived, but he awoke before the Prince left the palace and as his condition showed some improvement it was decided that the visit might be permitted without risk.

In view of the prolonged strain to which the King's constitution has been subjected it was generally felt today that serious developments might occur at any hour. The evening bulletin on his condition stated that there was no increase in his exhaustion and that his pulse was steady. Medical writers in the newspapers pointed out however that no gain in strength was noted and that the King's general infection continued.

A CENTURY AGO
Beside the road in Harley town there stands an ancient Blacksmith's Shop. Whose walls and roofs are dark and low. With chimneys peeping o'er the top;
Some two or three on either side. But only one with fire supped. Which puffs its smoky volumes high. In dusky wreaths along the sky.

Harrows, and wains with splintered shafts.
And broken wheels, are standing round;
And molten coals and cinders lie in scattered heaps along the ground;
And in the yard, beside the door. You see the square old tire-iron. With grass, and weeds and waving sledge bent down around its blackened edge.

The forge is in a little nook.
Before the chimney slant and wide; And, in a leather apron clad,
You see the helper by its side; Nodding his head and paper crown. He moves the handle up and down. Beneath his arm, with motion slow. And makes the rattling bellows blow.
Hard by the blacksmith folds his arms. And swells their knotted sinews strong;
Or turns his iron in the fire. And takes the coals, and hums a song.
But when his heat throws out its light. He hurries to the anvil bright. And sledges fall with deafening sound. And sparks are flying thick around.

The WOMAN'S DAY

ALLENE JUDGER

One of the most interesting and thought-provoking pictures printed in a long time, so far as I am concerned, is the picture of the frame house at 21 Massasoit street, Northampton, Mass., which has been rented by President and Mrs. Coolidge, occupancy to take effect after March 4, 1929.

Already boxes and bales packed in excelsior and paper have been sent to the big frame house—the possessions which the Coolidges took with them to Washington, and the mementoes which they have collected of the time when they were First Man and First Lady of a great land.

The house is big, but most unpretentious. It looks rather old and sprawly and inconvenient, and though its many shuttered windows, porches and vines that clamber up its side spell sunlight and air and homeliness, one knows that the man and woman who would choose such a home put little premium upon the "modern conveniences" which lure those of us who can, into apartments where somebody else tends to such prosaic matters as stoking furnaces and hauling forth ashes and lighting the hot water tank and raking up dead leaves and shoveling snow from the walks.

Somewhat the picture of the sprawling frame house does not speak of many servants. It distinctly announces that Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, now the president and the wife of the president of these United States of America, will return to pretty much that scale of living which they accepted before they became tenants of the nation's most famous house.

LIKE OLD HOME

True, this new home probably rents for a little more than $30 a month as did the one from which they came. But they return to small town, middle-class, without frills, living.

When the Coolidges went to the White House there were many stories about Mrs. Coolidge's thrift and housewifely abilities. We were told how she made her own shirtings and, so a neighbor confided, cut down her husband's shirts for the two boys. We were told of her cooking and preserving skill, her cookie recipes, her complete adherence to all the traditions of the womanly woman.

Then she went to Washington, first as Second Lady, then, as First. While it is almost axiomatic that the reigning First Lady is always the most gracious and charming and tactful of any who has ever graced the house on Pennsylvania avenue, the fact remains that Mrs. Coolidge is admitted by even political opposites to be just that very thing.

Their plans for their lives as private citizens are not at all unexpected for them. But stop and consider how many of those in the high places are willing to return to the old and humbler standard of living after graduation from their pinnacle. We have a tradition which says that the cares of public life are so onerous that the man and his family are only too glad to sink into oblivion. But turn the pages of history and see how many of the great and near-great you can find who, after tasting the sweet of power and fame, and living by an accordingly high standard, ever really returned to the sphere of living and thinking from which they started.

The house on Massasoit street makes many of us wonder, too, if the substitutes which we have been able to find for the old-fashioned, prosaic, house-living which makes us all rush to modern apartments, is a real substitute at all as far as personal happiness goes.

The Coolidges seem to think that a big inconvenient house to tend is worth their while even if they must have many more inner capacities for more diversified interests than most of us!

DECEMBER MEETING TRIANGLE CLUB

The December meeting of the Triangle Club of the Christian church will be held at the home of Miss Blanche Dockery, 630 North Dement Avenue, Thursday evening at 7:30.

Clubs are trumps and South has five of the six tricks against a perfect defense.

Layout the cards on a table, as shown in the diagram, and study the situation. See if you can find a method of play that will net North and South five of the six tricks.

THE SOLUTION

Many players, if confronted with this distribution of cards in an actual bridge game, would probably immediately concede their opponents two tricks. It is true that the situation looks none too good, with the king-jack-10 of trumps at the left of the lone ace-queen. Yet overcoming this disadvantage is not half so difficult as it may at first appear.

South leads the ace of hearts, and then the jack of hearts, North discarding his losing diamond. South now leads a diamond, and North trumps. North must next lead a spade, but South, no matter whether or not East covers, discards his last diamond. And West, unfortunately, is now compelled to trump, and then to lead a trump from his minor tenace to South's major tenace.

The opening lead of a trump in this problem, or of a diamond, brings obvious defeat. If the jack of hearts is led to North's king, North is placed in a helpless position. There is only one way to play the hand and to overcome West's advantage in trumps.

Chic New Bridge Jackets Reflect Spirit of Gowns

BY HENRI BENDEL

Written for NEA Service
New York—Little cocktail jackets or bridge jackets—as they are called depending on which part of the country they are worn—have entered the fine arts class.

But the unskilled designer or the woman who lacks excellent and restrained taste may find this style a terrible pitfall. For no little jacket is correct for evening that does not complete the gown it tops. To put just any shining jacket over an old chignon gown is a breach of good taste. It merely emphasizes the gown's lack.

The new jacket costumes more often than not use the gown's fabric for their starting point. If chiffon, sometimes crystals entirely cover them. But the basic color and fabric is there. If velvet, the jacket may be rich embroidered fabric, but it should have a touch of the frock's velvet about it.

Brilliant Colors
The new little jackets make much of necklines and sleeves. One new gown of blue tulle has a spangled cape topping it, instead of a jacket. Others have boleros, sleeveless cardigans or some other sports idea borrowed for the late afternoon or evening. Stock collars, scarfs, bow ties and other novelties appear on the most diaphanous, brilliant little things for formal balls.

Long creates a stunning little sleeveless jacket for one of his black velvet evening gowns, with circular dipping skirt and a bodice embroidered in peacock design in black and silver bugles.

Paisley patterned velvet, in red, green and beige shades makes a distinctive and most dashing little jacket to top a beige velvet afternoon frock. The velvet of the frock is used quite modernistically for long cuffs, to give a yoke effect to the jacket's scarf collar and to get a staggered plain effect up the back.

The paisley velvet joins the plain on a line of the design so, from anything but the closest inspection, it looks as if it were embroidered on the plain edge. This smoothness in effect is highly desirable, this season, especially in such accessories as the little jacket.

Metal cloth, in a modernistic pattern of brown, rose and gold, is used to fashion a little jacket of originality that completes a brown crepe roma frock, with cascading front and back.

This jacket has a tie collar, fastened with a gold button, wide cuffs, also buttoned, and a tricky front closing, with five of the gold buttons. It is lined and edged with the frock's brown.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—APRICOT FLAVOR

If you put a few apricots in with practically any fruit you are preserving now, they give a piquant flavor. Halved fresh apricots make delectable salad when filled with cream cheese.

CUCUMBER JELLY

A jelly salad flavored with chopped cucumbers is exceptionally good when chopped corn and pimento are added.

CORNERED BEEF HASH
Add a few chopped apples to cornered beef hash. If you like a piquant flavor. Apples are good too in lobster salad and in chicken salad.

NON-SKID HANGERS

To prevent dresses from slipping off hangers, wind elastic bands around the ends of the hangers. If hangers are of wood, push rubber-tipped tacks into each end.

NECKTIE HOLDER

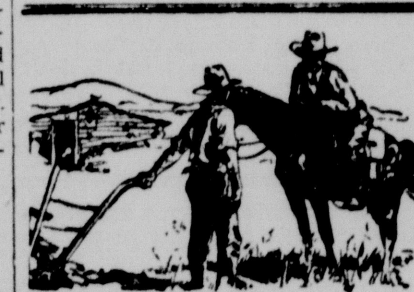

Screw a small towel rack into the closet door or the back of the closet for a necktie holder. It makes an excellent one.

TOMATOES AU GRATIN

Sliced tomatoes, cooked au gratin are delicious. Grill tomatoes sliced three-fourths of an inch thick and dipped in crackers. Arrange in a shallow baking dish, cover with cheese sauce and crumbs and put under the oven flames to brown quickly.

FRUIT PORRIDGE

With cooler days children should have hot porridge for breakfast. Appetizing is oatmeal or any cooked

WASHABLE PAINT

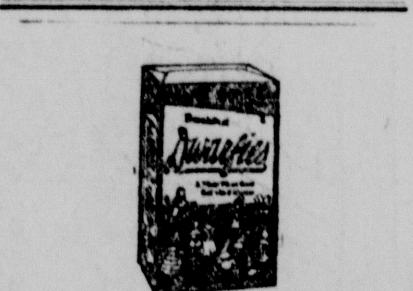

If you mix varnish with the paint used on your walls, when you do the woodwork, it will be the desirable non-glossy surface and still be washable.

YOUTH KNOWS PAIN, TOO.

In Boston a 15-year-old boy, an honor student in high school, went out on a lark with another lad of the same age. The two boys "borrowed" an auto that was parked along a street and drove aimlessly around the city and suburbs almost all night. Dawn was breaking when they finally abandoned it and started for their homes.

The high school youngster saw a light in his parents' home, realized they had sat up to wait for him, and was afraid to go in. He wandered about the streets until it was time to go to school. At the school house door his father was waiting for him. The father sternly escorted him home.

A severe lecture was forthcoming. The father, a policeman, tried to frighten the boy by telling him he had committed an offense that might send him to the reform school. When the lecture ended, the boy was sent up to his own room to meditate on his shortcomings.

Shortly afterward the parents heard a shot. The boy had taken his father's revolver from a dresser and had shot himself through the head killing himself instantly.

And that's all there is to that little story.

It isn't altogether uncommon to read of children in their early teens committing suicide. Usually their reasons seem woefully inadequate. A parental scolding, a fancied slight by schoolmates, a failure in studies or sports—and out goes the light. It is unspeakably tragic, pathetically puzzling.

Those people who are always talking about the happiness of youth and the great joy of being young fail to realize that youth has capacity for unlimited misery. Youth is so pitifully unfamiliar with the world. The slightest mishap can loom up like an earth-destroying catastrophe. The depths of despair open easily beneath the feet of a boy who is only 15.

Consider this lad's case. Like all healthy youngsters, he felt the urge to do something reckless and adventurous. The best thing he could think of was to appropriate an auto and drive idly about deserted streets—as pointless and silly a stunt as could be imagined.

Then, when it was over, came remorse and shame. He felt like a criminal. Who knows what pictures of disgrace and ruin came to his mind as he sat in his bedroom after that parental scolding? They must have been intense. Look at the thing they made him do.

It is always dangerous to be severe with youth. A boy or girl getting experience of the world for the first time can be so easily crushed. The sense of shame is too easily aroused. Of all the correctives in the world, the one that parents should avoid most is fear. It can have terrible consequences.

Interesting stories have been told of that 92-year-old drummer who is still traveling, but we have as yet seen no mention of the time when he had to stop at the farmer's house overnight.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNUCK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When Santa saw the Tinymites in their new suits he began to grin. "You look just fine," said he, "although they fit rather tight." "Oh, we don't mind that," Scouty cried. "As long as we have crawled inside these funny little outfits, they will have to be all right."

"All we want now is work to do, and we will prove we're clever, too. Just tell us where to go, and what to start in making first. Please don't be backward, Santa Claus. Bring on your hammer and your saws. We'll try to do our best, although it may look like our worst."

"Well, you're as kind as you can be," said Santa. "But it seems to me that first I'd better feed you. Do you think that you could eat?" "Oh! Could we?" Clowny loudly cried. "I feel an empty spot inside, and anything you'd give us for our lunch would be a treat."

So Santa took them to a spot where they found fine soup, piping hot. 'Twas served in little bowls, and every Tiny had his share. When this was finished, Santa said, "And now we'll have some jam and bread, and for dessert I'll give you all a nice big yellow pear."

At last they finished with their meal, and Copy said, "Now we all feel like getting lots of exercise." "All right," old Santa said. "Right down the street there is a shop, and that's the little place we'll stop." As soon as they were at the place, the whole bunch walked inside.

"Now this," said Santa "is the place where every dolly gets its face. We put the head and shoulders on the bodies last of all. But first we paint the faces bright so all the dolls will look all right. Get busy now at painting, but don't let the paint pots fall!" (The Tinymites paint doll faces in

ORIGIN OF THREE STATE BOULEVARD GIVEN BUILDERS

Highway Contractors in Annual Meeting in Chicago Today

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Origin and development of the "Three State Boulevard" the super-highway from Milwaukee around Chicago to Michigan City, La Porte and South Bend, Ind., was outlined before the Illinois Highway Contractors convention here today by General Manager Robert Kingery, of the Chicago Regional Planning Association.

"In the region of Chicago," Mr. Kingery said, "high speed rail transportation will not, if it can help it, go onto a public right-of-way, but is purchasing its own private right-of-way. Accordingly most of our plans for broader highways have been for the boulevard type rather than the super-highway type of cross section. DuPage county, which occupies the same relative position to Chicago as does Westchester county to New York, has pioneered in its establishment of three east and west boulevards, two hundred feet wide all the way across that county. They are located, roughly six miles apart, two are fairly close to the rows of existing villages which are strung like beads along Northwestern and the Burlington railroads. On one of these broad rights-of-way a forty foot wide concrete pavement is laid by the state of Illinois during 1928.

Since these broad thoroughfares cannot be extended very far east into the more thickly settled part of Cook county it was obvious to the highway authorities that a broad belt highway should be provided as a distributor for the traffic which eventually would be carried on the three DuPage county boulevards, and upon which it could sort itself and enter Chicago on any of the many narrower streets and highways. Accordingly, such a belt line was proposed, and before long it

COMPARES CHILE AND U. S. FIGHTS TO THEIR PLACES

Hoover Recites Much in Common Between Two Countries

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Replying to a formal welcome by President Ibanez today at a luncheon in the National Palace, President-elect Hoover declared that there was abundant reason why friendship and understanding between the United States and Chile should be deeply rooted in the hearts of the people of both nations.

He said that on both sides there was the common history of the labor of building in a new world a new form of government founded upon a new conception of human rights; subjugation of the wilderness; development of economic life through the application of the great discoveries of science and an effort to lift the moral and cultural levels of the two countries.

The President-elect said that the United States was fortunate in its relations with Chile in that there was no basis, either political or economic for rivalry.

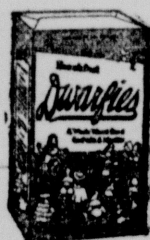

"Our economic interests are reciprocal and our progress in prosperity and comfort can only be mutual," he said.

The Chilean policy of external loans only for reproductive projects well might be adopted by the entire world including the states and cities of the United States. Mr. Hoover continued, adding confidence that the cycle in the United States development through capital borrowed from other nations would repeat itself in South America.

Expressing the sympathy of the people of the United States for the recent earthquake sufferers, Mr. Hoover said that the cities of Chile had risen from the ashes before through the indomitable will of their people and that they again had proved "that valor which is greater than my be won on any battle field."

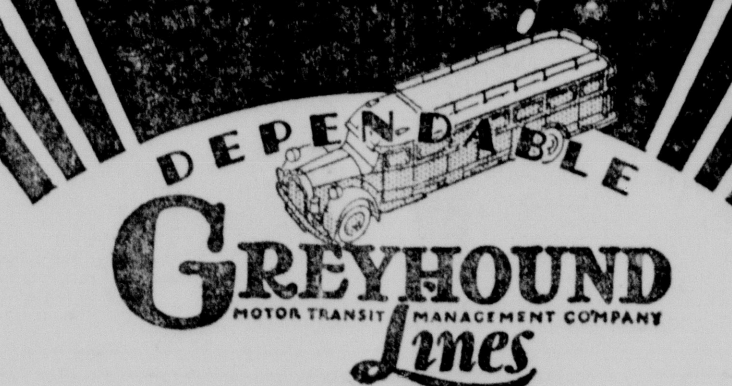

President Ibanez in welcoming Mr. Hoover to Chile said that the national spirit of the United States had given to the world incalculable benefits and even greater hope for future spiritual and material advancement between the peoples of both continents.

ROTHSTEIN CASE MAY INVOLVE U. S. IN A PROBE

Violation of Pact by Narcotic Makers is Alleged Now

New York, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The shot which dropped Arnold Rothstein, Nov. 4th, in the Park Central Hotel eventually may echo around the world.

Investigation of the narcotic syndicate which Rothstein is believed to have financed—at 180 per cent interest—today brought a charge by Representative Stephen C. Porter that narcotic manufacturers in six countries in Europe were not keeping the agreement of the Hague opium convention of -912. This agreement provided that the manufacture of narcotics would be limited to that for medical purposes only.

Representative Porter, a member of the foreign relations committee, came here with Col. L. C. Nutt, head of the National Narcotic Bureau, to inquire at first hand into the slain gambler's connections with the smuggling of narcotics.

Joseph Unger, alias Meyer, alias Klein, is under indictment here for possession, concealment and transportation of $2,000,000 worth of narcotics.

Mrs. June Boyd, in whose apartment in Chicago $500,000 worth of narcotics was found testified before the federal grand jury which indicted Unger. She was named in the indictment as a conspirator but not as a defendant. She was believed to have given authorities valuable information as to the operations of the gang to which Unger belonged.

Developments in the narcotic investigation have pushed the police search for Rothstein's slayer into the background. Another witness in the case, a man police said walked to the Park Central Hotel with Rothstein the night he was shot, was arrested in Atlantic City last night. He is Leo Maloney, 43, New York gambler. He had been sought for some time.

Gov. Elect of Wis. is No Politician

Chicago, Dec. 12—(AP)—Governor-elect Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin, admitted that he was "a prosperous man and no politician" in an address at the 31st annual banquet of the Illinois Manufacturers Association here last night. He spoke of "The Manufacturer in Public Life."

"I deny the value in public life," Mr. Kohler said, "of the time-serving type of politician whose only interest is to get and hold office, and on the other hand, I hold that practical understanding and capacity, a sincere interest in constructive progress and a desire to be of service are the qualities most needed in our public officials.

"The principal problems of government today are social and economic rather than political. They demand the same administrative ability required for the successful management of a large business. While the state is not organized for the purpose of making a profit, it is none the less a great business institution—collecting and spending the people's money. It is charged with the duty of rendering the best service at the least cost. I cannot see how it can satisfactorily discharge a single one of its functions unless it is first of all a well-managed institution."

Hearing Into Milk Prices is Recessed

Chicago, Dec. 12—(AP)—The hearing into the milk price situation in the Chicago area, came to an abrupt halt Tuesday when no witnesses appeared to testify.

The hearing was being conducted by a fact-finding committee appointed by church, civic and business groups following a threatened strike by milk farmers, who claim they are not receiving a fair return for dairy products.

The committee announced indefinite postponement of the hearing and indicated that some field work will be done in the interim. Representatives of Chicago dealers were to have testified today.

Dixon Boy to Lead Carthage Next Fall

The Carthage Collegian of December 3, contains the following account of the election of William "Bill" Johnson of Dixon to the captaincy of the 1929 Carthage College football squad:

"In a meeting of the Carthage football players immediately after the game Thursday, William Johnson, tackle, was elected captain of the 1929 team.

"The new captain has played three years on the Crimson team. In his freshman year he played tackle and end, filling each position in a masterful way, and also doing part of the punting. Last year and this year he played a consistent game at tackle, performing no spectacular feats but always doing his best.

"Besides being a great football tackle, Bill is one of the most popular and best liked students on the campus, president of the junior class and a man whose great work on the gridiron has been recognized by the coach and the players. The greatest honor possible has been put upon him by his fellows on the team.

"With Bill Johnson as captain, we can look forward to a successful 1929 season and start where we left off this year."

SPORT SLANTS

BY ALAN J. GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 12—(AP)—Although baseball has hardly got settled in winter quarters, there isn't any room left for argument or speculation over the list of 1929 major league managers. The roster for next year is complete much earlier than usual.

Reappointment of Lena Blackburne to lead the Chicago White Sox and side-tracking of apparent efforts to oust the veteran Wilbert Robinson in Brooklyn have cleared up the only remaining doubtful districts.

Four managerial changes have been made, two in each league. Bucky Harris remains a pilot, but shifts his operations to Detroit while his old team-mate, Walter Johnson, takes the helm at Washington.

The National League champion Cardinals have substituted Billy Southworth for Bill McKechnie.

Emil F. Fuchs of Boston has added the responsibilities of manager to those of president. The opinion prevails, however, that he will be quite willing to turn over most of the responsibility to Johnny Evers, who will associate himself again in Boston with such familiar figures as Rabbit Maranville and Hank Gowdy. This will be a reunion of the "Grand Army" of 1914.

The fistic whirl has had many a strange turn lately; strangest of all, perhaps, in Boston, where Jack Sharkey and Jim Maloney develop again as heavyweight contenders after having hit the chutes over a year ago.

Through the early stages of 1927 Sharkey and Maloney moved along impressively as two of the youngest, fastest and hardest-hitting of the crop. Their match in May at the Yankee Stadium was a "natural," but turned out to be a quick knockout victory for Sharkey. Two months later the sailor made a sorry showing against Dempsey.

The Army's All-American halfback, Red Cagle, is among the gridiron's outstanding individuals. He gave a classic example of his ability to make the play fit the situation in West

Point's final game against Stanford but he had been doing the unexpected, and getting away with it, all season.

At the start of the season, Cagle remarked:

"Those ends better get down there when I have the ball."

That was all Red had to say about it but the ends did "get down there" and quite frequently looked around in time to see a forward pass coming in their direction, depending on what maneuver Cagle had decided upon after a little light and fancy stepping.

Red's ability to pass on the run made it easy for him to switch his intentions impromptu, just as he did in the famous play that almost scored a touchdown against Stanford. That play provoked considerable argument as to whether it was a signaled or planned maneuver. It can be taken on the word of Army coaches that it was not.

Hooks and Slides

It Sounds Very Well

Some of the officials who had worked Western Conference basketball games last season complained about the hard treatment they received from some of the players and the spectators. The athletic heads of the universities in the conference learned of this when they sought to sign up officials for games this season.

The University of Illinois was the first up with a new code of ethics that had been adopted at a mass meeting of the students. It was adopted later by the conference as a whole and its merits repeated.

The code is as follows:

"A true Illinois sportsman:

"Will consider all athletic opponents as guests and treat them with all the courtesy due friends and guests.

"Will accept all decisions of officials without question.

"Will never hiss or boo a player or official.

"Will never utter abusive or irritating remarks from the side lines.

"Will applaud opponents who make good plays or show good sportsmanship.

"Will never attempt to rattle an opposing player, such as the pitcher in a baseball game or a player attempting to make a free toss in basketball.

"Will seek to win by fair and lawful means, according to the rules of the game.

"Will do unto others as he would have them do unto him.

"Will win without boasting and lose without excuses."

Illini Nice People

It was this same University of Illinois that was the executor of a magnificent act of sportsmanship and sentimental gallantry at the close of the late football season.

Dr. Jack Wilce, retiring after 15 years of coaching at Ohio State because the alumni virtually had driven him out, took his team to Urbana for the last game of the season against Illinois.

A little ceremony took place before the game that would have been appropriate if it had been staged before the home town crowd and if the circumstances attending the finale had been more pleasant.

Dr. Wilce was called to the field in the Illinois stadium and presented with an engraved testimonial, signed by the student body, in which he was paid the tribute of a competitor for his sportsmanship and his ability.

Tigers Gettin' Hot

Last season when the Philadelphia Athletics were hot on the trail of the New York Yankees, Bucky Harris, then managing the Washington Senators, expressed the opinion that the Athletics would not beat them out. The Athletics were up in the race because the Yankees were crippled down to their speed, he said.

"I think that Detroit is potentially the strongest team in the league next to the Yankees," he said. "And that goes for the Athletics, the Browns and my ball club."

If his judgment was correct the Tigers may have some ball club next year with Roy Johnson to bolster the outfield, Dale Alexander to dress up the infield and Johnny Prudhomme to help the pitchers.

McLain is Barred

Iowa City, Iowa, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Mayer McLain, Iowa's dashing Indian fullback, may be a man without a college gridiron.

Barred from further athletic competition in the Big Ten because of the three-year player rule, McLain has expressed the desire to play with some eastern school, preferably Carnegie Tech of Pittsburgh.

Carnegie Tech athletic officials, however, said while they would welcome him, that his three years of college football would automatically bar him from their team.

Plan Charity Game

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The eastern team will rely only on straight football to upset the west in the annual charity football game at San Francisco, Dec. 29. Associate Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Washington and Jefferson have announced.

The eastern squad, composed of 22 players from the east and middle-west, will assemble at Northwestern University Saturday and after a three hour drill will entrain for the west.

TRADES CENTER OF INTEREST AT LEAGUE SESSION

Many American League Managers Seeking to Swap Talent

BY PAUL R. MICHELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The American League player market is still bullish, but the bears persevered with great expectancy for the big break in prices as junior circuit officials and club owners went into a huddle again today.

Several deals for trades and outright sales of playing talent, blocked by high prices and high demands yesterday, were expected to be consummated.

Only two deals were made after a score of conferences among managers yesterday. One swapped George Uhle, Cleveland pitcher, to Detroit in exchange for shortstop Jack Tavener and pitcher Ken Holloway; the other was the outright sale of first baseman Johnny Neun by Detroit to the Toledo club of the American Association.

Many on Market

While the various club managers still persisted in demands for full value for every trade or sale, more than a score of players were known to be in the market. Among the rumored deals were those that would shift Buddy Myer from the Boston Red Sox to Washington for five players, and catcher Moe Berg and outfielder Bill Barrett of the White Sox to Boston or the Yankees in exchange for talent.

Every manager and club owner had one or more deals on the fire.

Everything of interest to come up before the junior circuit officials and owners, such as action in the demand by the minors that the majors sell their "farms" and the much tossed-about draft question, was expected to be held over for the joint meeting with the National League tomorrow.

It is likely that American League will follow the senior circuit and refuse to send delegates to the West Baden, Ind., conference at which the minors hope to settle the draft problem.

American League owners yesterday voted to continue support of the American League junior baseball championship program and favored a five-year program of subscribing $5,000 annually to the National Association of Professional Baseball Players. The National League must act favorably on the latter proposal before it is put into action.

To Pick Golfers

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Regional golf associations eventually will select the competitors for the National Open championships, President Robert Cutting of the Western Golf Association predicts.

Such a system, which would eliminate the various regional tournaments, would be especially beneficial in unearthing many good players who have difficulty in gaining admission Cutting said.

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The grand championship calf in the annual baby beef show of the St. Louis Livestock Exchange, a Black Angus exhibited by Elizabeth Clark, 14, of Waverly, Ill., was sold at auction Tuesday to the Statler Hotel for $2.20 a pound. The Wabash Railroad was the next highest bidder. The calf weighed 1035 pounds and thus brought the owner $2277 in addition to $360 in prizes.

The reserve champion, a Shorthorn exhibited by Dorothy M. Henry of Charleston, Ill., was sold for 46 cents a pound to the Tri-City Grocery Co.

PEDRICKS

Why is it that in practically every town you will find that PEDRICK HEAT SHAPED RINGS are being used more and more every day? Why is it that the majority of cars a year or more old in and around DIXON have PEDRICKS in them and that PEDRICKS are giving a satisfaction that no other piston rings give?

PLENTY OF REASONS!

PEDRICKS are HEAT SHAPED and do not lose their tension. PEDRICKS will stop excessive amount of oil used. PEDRICKS will give a motor more power and pep. PEDRICKS will make motors start easier in cold weather. PEDRICKS will deliver far more miles of service than others. PEDRICKS will stop crank case dilution which means better lubrication. PEDRICKS are low priced piston rings with features that no other rings have. Think this over. Why have the same kind of piston rings installed in your motor that caused you trouble. Tell your repair man that you WANT PEDRICKS and nothing else but PEDRICKS.

Bootlegger on Stand Against Cairo Chief

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 12—(AP)—A bootlegger's expense account—the pencilled story of large receipts from whiskey sales and purported payments to law officers for protection—was laid before a jury in federal Judge Lindley's court here Tuesday in the trial of 35 men on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act in Alexander county.

Sheriff Leslie B. Roche of Cairo was particularly involved in the tale of protection payments told by the witness, Gaither Moore, one-time bootlegger, saloon keeper and convicted sugar thief.
 Moore and a companion were convicted of stealing sugar from a federal barge at Cairo. He admitted today the sugar was used in making whiskey, and said that during seven months of liberty on an appeal, he had piled his bootleg trade in Cairo and named instances in which he paid officers for protection.
 He said that during his seven months he paid Sheriff Roche $50 a week for protection. In the memorandum books introduced as evidence were the words "split" and "four ways." The witness said the money was divided among two policemen, Sheriff Roche and two other men.

OBITUARY

Henry J. Barnhart was born in Willow Creek Township, Lee County, Illinois, on the 19th day of February, 1851 and came to the end of life's pilgrimage on Dec. 3, 1928 after having reached the ripe age of 77 years, 9 months, and 14 days. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barnhart who were pioneer settlers of this community. He was brought up in a good home and received a good training. All his life he departed in this community, enjoyed its privileges, and witnessed the changing order of things. His parents being farmers, he likewise pursued that vocation and was recognized as an able farmer.

On December 22, 1882 the deceased was united in bonds of holy matrimony with Miss Alverda Byrd. To this union was born 7 children of whom 3 have preceded him in death. His married life was a very happy one. Together with his wife and children they planned and worked for their future comfort and happiness. As previously mentioned the tranquility of the home life was interrupted when the messenger of death put in his appearance and claimed three of their children. The severest loss came when his helpmate was taken from him on Oct. 12, 1902. This was a severe loss but he reconciled himself to it, taking comfort in his happy family. At the time of his demise he made his home with his son Earl Barnhart and family (on the old home place). They ministered to all his wants and endeavored to make his declining days pleasant. His children were always mindful of him and did their best to please him.

The departed enjoyed splendid health all his life. It was not until early this Summer that he took sick, suffering a slight stroke. His last illness was of brief duration passing without pain or suffering quietly and peacefully out of this life.
 The departed was greatly respected in his community. His character was beyond reproach. He made and possessed many friends. For many years he was a school director and served his district faithfully. Though not a member of any church he was interested in the Scarboro Evangelical church, supported it financially and was anxious to see it prosper. In his departure he leaves to mourn four children: Mrs. Lulu Johnson, Mrs. Lydia Ellsworth, Earl and Floyd Barnhart; four grandchildren; a large relationship, a host of friends and many acquaintances. Sincerest sympathy is extended to the bereaved, and they are commended to our Father's love and comfort, who has promised to comfort the hearts of those that mourn. Funeral services were conducted from the home Thursday afternoon Dec. 6th at 1:30 o'clock and from the Scarboro Evangelical church at 2 o'clock. The Messrs. H. Riley and F. Wiley sang three appropriate selections. Rev. H. E. Kasch officiated. Interment at Twin Grove cemetery.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Kasch, daughter Lois, and Mrs. John Grove motored to Mendota.
 Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Kasch, daughter Lois, Mrs. Grace Wieginton were dinner guests and spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hess of Steward. In the evening all attended a religious musical given by the Norwegian Octette of Chicago at the Steward M. E. church. The program was splendid and a deep impression was made.

Annual S. S. meeting and election of officers next Sunday. All members of the church are urged to be present as this is an important meeting.

Chicago Heights to be Probed by Jury

Chicago, Dec. 11—(AP)—A decade of disorder in suburban Chicago Heights, scene of 65 slayings since 1918, commanded federal scrutiny today.

A politico-criminal alliance was blamed by Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson for five deaths by violence in the past ten days. Mayor Daniel Bergin was urged to tell Chicago Heights's story to a federal grand jury.

Dominick Spofato's death yesterday was attributed by police to his enemies in the "alky" racket. It was the eighth slaying during Mayor Bergin's two-year administration.

The utilities of a city are combined in your motor car

YOUR automobile is something like a miniature city. There is an electric light and power system, a water system, a fuel system.

In the new Ford, you will find each of these systems of the latest design and built of the best materials. Every part has been made to serve you faithfully and well and at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Take, for example, the generator—one of the most important parts of the electrical system which supplies the current for lighting and for engine ignition.

In the new Ford, the generator is of the power-house type and is distinctive in many features. It has been specially designed to prevent most forms of trouble. Oiling is necessary only once a year. About the only thing you need do is to have the charging rate changed as the seasons change.

Closely allied to the electrical system is the ignition system. It, too, is of new mechanical design in the new Ford. There is but one high tension cable and that connects the coil with the distributor. Even cables from the distributor to the spark plugs have been eliminated. Special care has also been taken to make the distributor water-proof, thus preventing short circuits from rain, etc.

The electrical and ignition systems of the new Ford are so simple in design and so carefully made that they will give you surprisingly little trouble. Yet that doesn't mean they should be neglected. Certain little attentions are needed from time to time.

The storage battery should be given water and the connections kept clean. The generator charging rate should be changed as indicated. Spark plugs should be cleaned at regular intervals. Distributor points should also be kept clean and the distributor cam given a light film of vaseline every 2000 miles.

These are just little things, but they mean a great deal to your car. You can have them looked after at very small cost by the Ford dealer when you take the car in for oiling and greasing.

A thorough checking-up at regular intervals will lengthen the life of your car and give you many thousands of miles of care-free, economical motoring.

How Experts Hope to End Oil Fire

Spectacular operations have been developed in the desperate battle to quench the burning Bellevue No. 1 oil well in the center of the rich Santa Fe Springs, near Los Angeles. By almost superhuman effort working in terrific heat, engineers managed to place a 40-foot pipe over the mouth of the burning well. This raises the flame high above the ground, permitting approach toward the mouth of the well for attempts to cap it.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET NULL
(Contributed)

The Word of God rightly speaks of death as an enemy. "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." Sometimes it seems so cruel, taking a loved one from us in the very prime of life, when seemingly needed most. The whole community senses this when a mother is taken for again and again is the remark made. "I think this is the saddest death of all." As far as the support of the family is concerned the father is necessary in the economy of life, but in the rearing of children the place of importance is the mother's. And yet both father and mother are needed in the plan of God if boys and girls are to "grow up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord," as the Bible makes very clear and plain, making no differences in parental responsibility. Only today we are sadly conscious of the loss of this lovely and devoted mother, who also in the relationship of wife, daughter, and sister, was no less loved and true.

Margaret Gesine Behrends was born near Gap Grove, Palmyra township, Lee County, Ill., June 12, 1890, and died in the Sterling public hospital shortly after 8 o'clock Friday morning, Nov. 30, 1928, aged 28 years, 5 months and 18 days. These boundary lines of her life do not give a hint of its usefulness and richness in many ways. And yet it seems so strange that "one so lovely and so fair" should have a life so brief. She was the eldest of three children of Theodore and Elizabeth Robinson Behrends in whose home she grew to maturity's years. She attended the Gap Grove school and after receiving her elementary education there she was privileged to attend the high school in Dixon for two years during 1915-16. Then she was at home for about a year before she entered

OBSTRUCTIONIST TO BE ROLE OF ROGER F. LITTLE

Urbana Representative
Plans Fight on Numerous Measures

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Blocking, rather than backing, proposed legislation is the program Roger F. Little, representative from the 24th senatorial district, plans for the coming legislative session.

Among bills which Little will seek to stop is the proposal for an old age pension, which, he said, is sponsored by several fraternal orders.

"An old age pension," he said, "would discourage thrift and hard work and I cannot see why the state should go into it. I believe the proposal should be given more publicity, and the reaction of the people obtained, before it is adopted by the legislature."

Rep. Little is in favor of a plan to license automobile drivers "if it can be done economically," and believes that the state payroll can be cut 25 per cent.

Although offering no legislative remedy, Representative Little said that the public's present attitude toward the Illinois Commerce Commission is to be "viewed with alarm."

"It is anarchy," he said, "for people—citizens of every class—to distrust the actions of a state body as the present commerce commission is distrusted. Their acts are viewed with suspicion because of a belief that corporations are getting the big end of things."

"The remedy for that condition lies with Louis L. Emmerson. A man in whom the general public has great faith—a Judge Landis, if one can be found—should be chosen to head the commerce body. And the remainder of the personnel should be picked with equal care. I have no one to suggest for the job. But some one must be selected."

Mr. Little holds out no hope for the plan of widening state roads from Chicago to the principal centers of the state unless someone comes forward with a plan to finance such a project, and he pointed out that at a recent meeting of the Chicago Motor Club officials and interested citizens that no word of how the financing would be put over was even mentioned.

ILLINOIS MUST FIND NEW WAY TO RAISE COIN

Road Bond Issue is Now
Nearly Exhausted:
Discuss Means

Chicago, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Faced with the exhaustion of the $100,000,000 bond issue, Illinois must find another method of financing to complete its hard road system, delegates to the state association of highway contractors were told today by D. O. Thomas, St. Clair county commissioner of highways and ardent supporter of a tax or gasoline.

Believing the arguments "which raged two years ago on the gas tax are things of the past," Mr. Thomas advocated early passage by the legislature of a three cent tax—one cent for the state, one cent for the county and one cent for cities and villages.

"The only questions for argument concerning a gas tax," he declared ing as we look up through our tears, "Thy will be done!"

"are, how much it shall be and how equitable distribution may be accomplished."

"The state of Illinois is face to face with the problem of a complete refinancing of its road program," he said.

"This refers not only to the state bond roads under the jurisdiction of the state, but to the secondary road system under the charge of the county, the third class road system under the charge of the townships and cities and villages of the state upon which the traffic from the other roads outside of the cities and villages is thrown."

The state bond issues are practically exhausted. There will be left to pave out of the hundred million dollar routes not yet contracted about 2500 miles. Either another bond issue or some other method of financing is imperative if the state system is to be completed, and it is the consensus of opinion that bond issues are not the proper financial way to handle the remaining state bond roads to be built, but the so-called pay as you go plan should be adopted.

"In the secondary system there are practically 19,000 miles of roads, a great portion of which cry out for maintenance and construction in order to take care of the ever increasing traffic."

"The third class or roads under the charge of the highway commissioners and townships and road districts in the state are fairly well financed and with a development of the secondary road system by the county a part of the township and road district burden is relieved."

"The state and county have the authority under the law to build within cities and village under a certain population, but in the large cities and villages there is no legal authority for the expenditure of any state or county funds. A large volume of traffic is dumped upon the major arteries of these large cities and villages and the maintenance and reconstruction of these city streets becomes a burden upon the abutting property owner under the local improvement act. This is manifestly unfair."

"The incoming administration has pledged a rapid completion of the remaining hundred million dollar routes; a development of the secondary road system without any additional tax obligation upon general property; and an adequate construction program around the centers of population such as Chicago and East St. Louis by road widening grade separations and the like to take care of the traffic concentrated in these areas."

"A large amount of the revenue derived from gas tax will come from vehicles plying on city streets, many of which never leave these city streets. Any distribution of a gas tax should have a portion of it allocated to the cities and villages for the maintenance of these city and village streets, especially the streets upon which the through traffic is concentrated."

The motor vehicle owner who is paying this bill should have an absolute guarantee that the money he pays into the treasury in gas taxes will go for the purpose for which it is levied and any gas tax legislation should have thrown about it ample protection of these funds and a centralized control of their expenditure and of their accounting."

"The congested areas in the state such as the metropolitan areas of Chicago and East St. Louis, should be given generous consideration in the expenditure of this gas tax."

"More highways wider highways, grade separations and other problems of improvement require immediate attention in these congested metropolitan areas whether they be within the corporate limits of the cities in these areas or whether they be outside these limits."

FAILLE THREATENS
VOGUE OF TAFFETA

Paris.—Taffeta's popularity was short-lived, to judge from the small number of important French dress houses that include it in their mid-winter styles.

Faille, a soft corded silk, has replaced it entirely at some houses. Madame Louiseboulanger is an exponent of faille in the place of taffeta. She shows several new dresses in the material, some plain and some of brocade weave. One pattern is an undulating horizontal stripe of satin weave on a faille surface.

Milk kept in a roomy, shallow basin will remain sweet longer than if put in a jug.

Dr. Wilbert Shallenberger, the Chicago Specialist, has practiced the non-surgical treatment of Piles for over 27 years and has a large number of pleased patients scattered throughout the Midwest.
